

Feeling Your Energy is Drained?
Build a New Reserve of Energy & Resilience on the BMI Virtual Campus
August 3-7, 2020,

Uncertain times require good decision making, so it is critical to know new concepts, strategies, implementation tools and problem-solving management strategies you can use every day. A few new courses to guide you are: Difficult Decisions: Problem Solving During Uncertain Times; Strategy in Times of Crisis; Using Project Management for Success in Any Environment; Generations Adapting to Stay-at-Home;" Building Trust Relationships in the Virtual World; and more! Plus, there will opportunities to learn from you peers in Connect Sessions and course breakout groupings.

BMI's Virtual Experience will bring you to a virtual web-portal campus with a Course Gallery, Directories of Attendees and Faculty, CPE certification attendance collection, plus Classrooms for General Sessions, Track Courses & Breakouts, and Connect Sessions, and campus gatherings. Plus, you don't have to plan travel, pack a bag, arrange a ride to campus, park a car, or maneuver those pesky lines at the dining commons!

Monday, August 3-Thursday, August 6, the days on campus will engage you in morning courses with interactive segments, give you a 3 hour mid-day break, and then bring you back to campus in the afternoon for classroom and connect experiences. Friday, August 7 will be morning only. BMI's Virtual Campus schedule will run on Pacific Daylight Time (PDT) and everyday will include networking groups, live Q&A, time with BMI faculty, special connections, and access to BMI's expected high-quality professional development experience.

This can be yours in an otherwise bleak landscape for learning in these "locked-down" and travel restricted times.

For more details and registration, please go to www.wacubo.org and click on the Business Management Institute. We look forward to welcoming you the the 2020 BMI Virtual Campus.